Fair Philosophy:

The mission of the Long Island Fleece and Fiber Fair is to (i) educate the public and about fiber arts and crafts and raise the level of appreciation for this within the public; and (ii) provide a showcase for the display and sale of such arts and crafts. The Fair features many aspects of the fiber arts including but not limited to animal displays, shearing, dying, spinning, weaving, and felting. A specific focus is on producers and crafters from Long Island and the surrounding region. Vendors of hand-crafted fiber, yarn, craft-related supplies, and hand-crafted finished items are encouraged to submit applications.

The Fair Committee strives to create an event that (i) showcases the talents and skills of vendors; (ii) has a mix of vendors and merchandise that is appealing to visitors; and (iii) maximizes the opportunity for vendors to sell their merchandise. Therefore, the Committee reserves the right to decline certain vendors and/or restrict merchandise proposed for sale so as to minimize product overlap and/or inappropriate merchandise.

Hallockville Museum Farm is the Fair venue and the museum farm interprets 250 years of agricultural history on the North Fork. In order to reflect the historic and rural atmosphere of the museum farm and its mission of promoting traditional handcrafts and arts, vendors should be sensitive to the nature of the site and their displays should reflect that sensitivity.

4. Hallockville reserves the right to request the removal of inappropriate crafts and/or displays, and vendors selling unauthorized items will be asked to remove those items.
5. Vendors are not permitted to sell raffle tickets or other prizes for cash.
